Our Design Philosophy

Building Blocks

Whatever your business venture or enterprise, let 2 Soft Systems develop for you customized office automation system software through a partnership of shared expertise and responsibility that will ensure the direction for your enterprise. We are one of the leading experts in helping clients envision and deploy office automation systems with web capabilities that generate measurable business value and delight the people who use them.

2 Soft Systems performs in-depth analysis and studies to define your system parameters and work processes, moving to conceptual data model prior to embarking on your system design. Gaining a thorough knowledge of your systems and needs, 2 Soft Systems creates and deploys software which has easy interfaces that are smooth and intuitive.

Training & Support Programs

Through hundreds of client software installations, we've learned an important lesson. Each and every one is unique. Whether it's the amount of assistance needed, the target implementation timeframe, the amount of personalization required, or any of a number of other variables, each installation is different and must be approached with careful planning. That's why 2 Soft Systems begins each installation with a plan meeting. Our implementation team, which includes the software account executive and your key project team members, review and plan for every aspect of the system installation. At the kickoff meeting, the project team determines which services will be needed during implementation, and depending on your needs we can assist you with:

- Project Planning and Management
- Training
- Personalizing the Software
- Data conversion from Previous Systems (optional and depends on each case)
- Integration with Other Systems (Optional)
- General Consulting

At 2 Soft Systems, we've learned that our clients have the best learning experience when they are using their own systems and their own data. So most of our training is provided at your site using data that conforms to your chart of accounts and configuration preferences. In addition to improving the quality of the training, this approach is often much more economical for our clients.

If you're wondering why all software vendors don't operate this way, we can think of at least one reason. Their trainers, who may not even be employed by the vendor may know only enough to rigidly follow the training guide. Since all of our trainers are full-time employees experienced with our software, they are competent and comfortable in gearing the training to the way you will use the software. Since training is held at your site, all questions come from your own users, not from other organizations with different issues and interests.

We provide a training system for users to experiment and learn to operate our systems. You can use dummy data or real business data to learn operations and generate reports.
